STATE OF CALIFORNIA,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:18-cv-03934-ODW (PJW)

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND [24]

I. INTRODUCTION

Before the Court is Defendants' Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint for lack of jurisdiction and failure to state a claim. (Mot. to Dismiss, ECF No. 24.) For the following reasons, the Court GRANTS Defendant's motion to dismiss without leave to amend.¹ (ECF No. 24.)

II. BACKGROUND

In September 2010, the Office of the Attorney General for the State of California (“OAG”), as part of its responsibility for regulating charitable entities, approved Plaintiff Deanco Healthcare, LLC’s attempt to purchase Mission Community Hospital from a nonprofit organization. (Compl. ¶ 30, ECF No. 1.) As a condition of the approval, the OAG required Plaintiff to provide a minimum amount of charity care to indigent and uninsured individuals, or to provide financial support to nonprofit organizations in Plaintiff’s area that do (hereinafter, the “Charity Care Condition”). (Id. ¶¶ 33–34.) In July 2013, when the purchase “closed,” Plaintiff confirmed its commitment to comply with the conditions of purchase for the next six years. (Id. ¶ 31.)

Plaintiff now claims that, as a result of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (“Affordable Care Act”) and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010, from 2013 to 2017, the number of uninsured individuals in California dropped from 17.2% to 7.2%. (Opp’n to Mot. to Dismiss (“Opp’n”) 1, ECF No. 25.) Plaintiff complains that instead of enjoying the success of the Affordable Care Act, it “has been punished by every individual since 2010 who has procured health insurance.” (Compl. ¶ 10.) As a result of more individuals having insurance, the demand for charity care at Plaintiff’s hospital decreased, resulting in Plaintiff’s alleged inability to comply with the Charity Care Condition. (See Opp’n 2.)

In 2016, Plaintiff requested that Defendants modify the threshold for the Charity Care Condition due to the impact of the Affordable Care Act. (Compl. ¶ 46.) In response, Defendants commissioned a third-party consultant to conduct a study of the charity care needs in Plaintiff’s hospital’s community, and, on March 9, 2018, held a public hearing on Plaintiff’s request. (Id. ¶¶ 58, 59.) Following the study and public hearing, on April 13, 2018, Defendants denied Plaintiff’s request. (Id. ¶ 60.)

On May 10, 2018, Plaintiff filed the instant suit seeking to invalidate the Charity Care Condition on the basis that it is preempted by federal law. (See Compl.)

1 Defendants move to dismiss Plaintiff’s Complaint pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil 2 Procedure 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6).

3 III. LEGAL STANDARD

4 A. RULE 12(b)(1)

5 Under Rule 12(b)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a defendant may 6 move to dismiss a complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Fed. R. Civ.
7 P. 12(b)(1). “Jurisdictional dismissals in cases premised on federal-question
8 jurisdiction are exceptional” Sun Valley Gasoline, Inc. v. Ernst Enters., 711 F.2d 9 138, 140 (9th Cir. 1983). “A Rule 12(b)(1) jurisdictional attack may be facial or 10 factual.” Safe Air for Everyone v. Meyer, 373 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2004) (citing 11 White v. Lee, 227 F.3d 1214, 1242 (9th Cir. 2000)). A facial attack is based on the 12 challenger’s assertion that allegations in the complaint are “insufficient on their face
13 to invoke federal jurisdiction.” Id. A factual attack disputes the validity of allegations 14 that, if true, would invoke federal jurisdiction. Id. In resolving a factual attack, the 15 court “need not presume the truthfulness of the plaintiffs’ allegations.” White, 227
16 F.3d at 1242. Once a defendant moves to dismiss for lack of subject matter
17 jurisdiction, the plaintiff bears the burden of establishing the court’s subject matter
18 jurisdiction. See Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 511 U.S. 375, 377 (1994);
19 Chandler v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 598 F.3d 1115, 1122 (9th Cir. 2010).

20 B. RULE 12(b)(6)

21 A court may dismiss a complaint under Rule 12(b)(6) for lack of a cognizable 22 legal theory or insufficient facts pleaded to support an otherwise cognizable legal 23 theory. Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep’t, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1988). To 24 survive a dismissal motion, a complaint need only satisfy the minimal notice pleading
25 requirements of Rule 8(a)(2)—a short and plain statement of the claim. Porter v.
26 Jones, 319 F.3d 483, 494 (9th Cir. 2003). The factual “allegations must be enough to 27 raise a right to relief above the speculative level.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 28 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). That is, the complaint must “contain sufficient factual matter,

1 accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Ashcroft v.
2 Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (internal quotation marks omitted).

3 The determination of whether a complaint satisfies the plausibility standard is a 4 “context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial 5 experience and common sense.” Id. at 679. A court is generally limited to the 6 pleadings and must construe all “factual allegations set forth in the complaint . . . as 7 true and . . . in the light most favorable” to the plaintiff. Lee v. City of Los Angeles,
8 250 F.3d 668, 679 (9th Cir. 2001). But a court need not blindly accept conclusory
9 allegations, unwarranted deductions of fact, and unreasonable inferences. Sprewell v.
10 Golden State Warriors, 266 F.3d 979, 988 (9th Cir. 2001).

11 IV. DISCUSSION

12 Defendants move to dismiss Plaintiff’s Complaint on two bases: (1) Defendants
13 the OAG and State of California are immune from suit under the Eleventh 14 Amendment and are not “persons” subject to liability under 42 U.S.C. § 1983; and 15 (2) Plaintiff’s preemption claims must be dismissed for failure to state a claim.
16 (Mot. 1–2.)

17 A. ELEVENTH AMENDMENT IMMUNITY

18 Defendants the OAG and State of California move to dismiss under Rule
19 12(b)(1) on the basis that they are immune from suit pursuant to the Eleventh 20 Amendment.

21 The Eleventh Amendment immunizes states, an arm of the state, its 22 instrumentalities, or its agencies from suits brought in federal courts. Pennhurst State
23 Sch. & Hosp. v. Halderman, 465 U.S. 89, 100 (1984); Franceschi v. Schwartz, 57
24 F.3d 828, 831 (9th Cir. 1995). There are three exceptions to this rule: (1) “Congress 25 may abrogate that immunity pursuant to its lawmaking powers”; (2) “a state may 26 waive its Eleventh Amendment immunity by consenting to suit”; and (3) “immunity 27 does not apply when the plaintiff” sues a state official in his or her official capacity for 28 prospective injunctive relief. Steshenko v. Gayrard, 70 F. Supp. 3d 979, 988–89

1 (N.D. Cal. 2014); see Ex Parte Young, 209 U.S. 123, 166 (1908); Doe v. Lawrence
2 Livermore Nat'l Lab., 131 F.3d 836, 839 (9th Cir. 1997). Moreover, the Eleventh
3 Amendment limits claims brought under § 1983. Lawrence Livermore Nat'l Lab., 131
4 F.3d at 839.

5 Here, Plaintiff does not dispute that the State of California is immune from suit
6 pursuant to the Eleventh Amendment. Rather, Plaintiff requests that the dismissal be 7 without prejudice.² However, it is evident that the State of California is immune from 8 suit, and Plaintiff provides no reason why the dismissal should be without prejudice.
9 Accordingly, the State of California is dismissed from this lawsuit with prejudice.

10 As to Defendant the OAG, Plaintiff argues that it should be stripped of its 11 immunity because it operates independently from the state. (Opp'n 5.) Plaintiff 12 identifies three factors that the Court should consider before stripping immunity from 13 state agencies: "(1) whether the agency performs 'essentially governmental' functions, 14 (2) whether the agency has the right to sue on its own behalf and (3) whether the 15 agency has power to take and hold property in its own name." (Id.) Plaintiff has not 16 met its burden. Plaintiff's Complaint contains no facts in support of any of these 17 factors that would warrant stripping the OAG of its immunity. Additionally, Plaintiff
18 provides no authority where a court has stripped the OAG of its immunity. The OAG 19 is undoubtedly an arm of the state. "The Eleventh Amendment protects the State from 20 the risk of adverse judgments" Regents of the Univ. of Cal. v. Doe, 519 U.S. 425, 21 431 (1997) (emphasis added).³ Accordingly, Defendants the OAG and State of

23 ² Plaintiff likewise does not oppose Defendants' request to dismiss the eighth and ninth claims for 24 relief, which allege state law causes of action pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure 25 sections 1085 and 1094.5. See Pennhurst, 465 U.S. at 124–25 (holding that federal courts lack 26 jurisdiction to enjoin "state institution and state officials on the basis of" state law). Accordingly, the eighth and ninth claims are DISMISSED without leave to amend. See Qureshi v. Countrywide
Home Loans, Inc., Case No. 09-4198 SBA, 2010 WL 841669, at *6 n.2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 10, 2010)
(finding that a failure to oppose results in an abandonment of those claims).

27 ³ This does not prohibit a lawsuit against the Attorney General. See Ass'n des Eleveurs de Canards
28 et d'Oies du Quebec v. Harris, 729 F.3d 937, 943 (9th Cir. 2013) (finding that the Attorney General may be subject to suit under Ex Parte Young).

1 California are entitled to immunity under the Eleventh Amendment and are dismissed
2 from this lawsuit with prejudice.

3 B. PREEMPTION

4 There are three classes of preemption: express preemption, conflict preemption,
5 and field preemption. Pursuant to the Supremacy Clause, U.S. Const. art. VI, cl. 2, 6 federal law preempts state law when “(1) Congress enacts a statute that explicitly 7 preempts state law; (2) state law actually conflicts with federal law; or (3) federal law 8 occupies a legislative field to such an extent that it is reasonable to conclude that 9 Congress left no room for state regulation in that field.” Chae v. SLM Corp., 593 F.3d
10 936, 941 (9th Cir. 2010).

11 Plaintiff claims that the Charity Care Condition is invalid under two theories:
12 (1) field preemption based on the Emergency Medical Treatment and Active Labor 13 Act (“EMTALA”), 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd, which prevents hospitals from refusing to 14 provide emergency medical treatment or transferring patients before their conditions
15 are stabilized; and (2) conflict preemption as to five federal laws.⁴ (See Compl. ¶¶ 66, 16 70, 75, 79, 84, 85.) Accordingly, the Court addresses whether Plaintiff’s Complaint 17 sufficiently alleges a claim for field and conflict preemption.

18 1. FIELD PREEMPTION

19 EMTALA regulates hospitals with an emergency department. 42 U.S.C.
20 § 1395dd(a). Specifically, when an individual “comes to the emergency department 21 and a request is made on the individual’s behalf for examination or treatment for a 22 medical condition, the hospital must provide for an appropriate medical screening 23 examination within the capability of the hospital’s emergency department.” Id.
24 EMTALA also prohibits hospitals from transferring individuals with an emergency
25 medical condition prior to the individual being stabilized. Id. § 1395dd(c).

26
27 ⁴ (1) EMTALA, 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd; (2) Medicaid Expansion, 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(74); (3) the 28 individual mandate of the ACA, 26 U.S.C. § 5000A; (4) Health Benefit Exchanges under the ACA,
42 U.S.C. § 18031; and (5) Medicaid, 42 C.F.R. § 447 et seq. (Compl. ¶¶ 62, 69, 75, 79, 84.)

1 In Plaintiff's Complaint, Plaintiff claims that Congress, through EMTALA,
2 intended to occupy the entire field, thus leaving no room for the Charity Care
3 Condition. (See Compl. ¶¶ 65, 66.) However, in Plaintiff's Opposition, Plaintiff does 4 not address the issue of field preemption. (See Opp'n 19–21.) Instead, Plaintiff takes 5 issue with Defendants' characterization that the EMTALA claim is partially based on 6 field preemption. (Id. at 19.) However, viewing the Complaint in the light most 7 favorable to Plaintiff, the Court will construe the EMTALA claim as partially based 8 on field preemption, despite Plaintiff's failure to address the issue in its Opposition.

9 Field preemption occurs when states are precluded from regulating conduct in a 10 field that Congress "has determined must be regulated by its exclusive governance."
11 Valle del Sol Inc. v. Whiting, 732 F.3d 1006, 1022 (9th Cir. 2013). Field preemption
12 can be inferred from a regulation that is "so pervasive . . . that Congress left no room 13 for the [s]tates to supplement it or where there is a federal interest . . . so dominant 14 that the federal system will be assumed to preclude enforcement of state laws on the 15 same subject." Id. at 1022–23 (internal quotation marks omitted).

16 As an initial matter, Plaintiff does not identify the field that Congress intended
17 to occupy through EMTALA. Thus, the Court is left to speculate what field Plaintiff
18 believes Congress intended to occupy through EMTALA. See Montalvo v. Spirit
19 Airlines, 508 F.3d 464, 470 (9th Cir. 2007) (identifying a field in which Congress 20 intended to occupy for the purposes of field preemption).

21 Additionally, EMTALA is explicit regarding preemption. EMTALA contains a 22 statement indicating a general congressional intent not to preempt state law: "[t]he 23 provisions of this section do not preempt any State or local law requirement, except to 24 the extent that the requirement directly conflicts with a requirement of this section."
25 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd(f). The text of the statute is unambiguous that EMTALA would 26 preempt state law only if the state requirement directly conflicted with the 27 requirements of EMTALA. Accordingly, "[w]hen Congress has considered the issue 28 of preemption and has included . . . a provision explicitly addressing that issue . . .

1 there is no need to infer congressional intent to preempt state laws from the 2 substantive provisions of the legislation.” Draper v. Chiapuzio, 9 F.3d 1391, 1393
3 (9th Cir. 1993) (per curiam) (quoting Cipollone v. Liggett Grp. Inc., 505 U.S. 504, 4 517 (1992)). This leaves open only the possibility for conflict preemption as it relates 5 to EMTALA.

6 As such, Plaintiff’s claim for field preemption pursuant to EMTALA is 7 dismissed without leave to amend.

8 2. CONFLICT PREEMPTION

9 Plaintiff alleges that five federal laws preempt the Charity Care Condition:
10 (1) EMTALA, 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd; (2) Medicaid Expansion, 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(74);
11 (3) the individual mandate of the Affordable Care Act, 26 U.S.C. § 5000A; (4) Health 12 Benefit Exchanges under the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18031; and 13 (5) Medicaid, 42 C.F.R. § 447 et seq. (Compl. ¶¶ 62, 69, 75, 79, 84.)

14 Conflict preemption occurs when state law conflicts with a federal statute.
15 Crosby v. Nat’l Foreign Trade Council, 530 U.S. 363, 373 (2000). Conflict
16 preemption has two forms: impossibility and obstacle preemption. Id. at 372.
17 Impossibility preemption occurs where “it is impossible for a private party to comply 18 with both state and federal law.” Id. Obstacle preemption occurs “where under the 19 circumstances of a particular case, the challenged state law stands as an obstacle to the 20 accomplishment and execution of the full purposes and objectives of Congress. Id. at 21 373 (internal quotation marks and alterations omitted).

22 Beyond Plaintiff’s conclusory allegations, Plaintiff does not allege any facts
23 regarding how the Charity Care Condition makes it impossible for Plaintiff to comply 24 with the federal laws or stands as an obstacle to the full purposes and objectives of 25 Congress. In fact, as it relates to EMTALA, Plaintiff freely admits that “[d]uring all 26 relevant times herein, [Plaintiff] has complied with its obligations under 42 U.S.C.
27 [§] 1395dd,” and Plaintiff makes no allegation that the Charity Care Condition
28 obstructs the accomplishment and execution of EMTALA. (See Compl. ¶ 25.)

1 Additionally, as it relates to Medicaid and Medicaid Expansion, Plaintiff does
2 not allege conflict preemption. Instead, Plaintiff’s allegation is that the Charity Care
3 Condition makes it less lucrative to comply with Medicaid law, specifically that the 4 Charity Care Condition penalizes Plaintiff and that “the incentives created by 5 Congress become pyrrhic at best.” (Id. ¶ 73.) Like EMTALA, Plaintiff is able to 6 comply with its Medicaid obligations and meet the Charity Care Condition; it just may 7 not be as profitable as it once was. (See id. ¶ 90.) Moreover, Plaintiff makes no claim
8 that the Charity Care Condition hindered Congress’s intent behind Medicaid and 9 Medicaid Expansion or that the Charity Care Condition negatively affected
10 Congress’s ability to subsidize medical services to needy individuals. See Armstrong
11 v. Exceptional Child Ctr., Inc., 135 S. Ct. 1378, 1382 (2015) (“Medicaid is a federal 12 program that subsidizes the States’ provision of medical services . . .”).

13 The crux of Plaintiff’s claim is that there are more individuals who have 14 medical insurance and less individuals who need charity care because of the 15 Affordable Care Act, and as a result, Plaintiff cannot meet the minimum amount of 16 charity care as set forth in the Charity Care Condition without having to drive the 17 streets “looking for those most ill among the homeless population.” (Opp’n 2, 21.)
18 Even if there are more people who have medical insurance as a result of the 19 Affordable Care Act, this does not explain why Plaintiff cannot comply with the other 20 component of the Charity Care Condition, specifically, providing financial support to 21 nonprofit organizations in Plaintiff’s area that do provide charity care. Simply 22 because it is more difficult for Plaintiff to comply with the Charity Care Condition
23 does not mean that the Charity Care Condition has been preempted.

24 Moreover, Plaintiff has failed to identify how the Charity Care Condition stands 25 as an obstacle to the full purposes and objectives of Congress when it enacted the 26 ACA. Although the Court appreciates the history lesson of the different federal 27 statutes and the purpose of charity care, neither the Opposition nor the Complaint
28 explains how the Charity Care Condition contravenes Congress’s objective or intent.

1 Plaintiff's Complaint actually alleges that the Charity Care Condition has not affected
2 Congress' goal in enacting the ACA, namely to decrease the number of uninsured
3 individuals. (See Compl. ¶ 57.) Defendants are correct that Plaintiff has it backwards,
4 "[a]lthough [Plaintiff] alleges that its compliance with federal law makes it more 5 difficult (or most costly) to meet its charity care condition, it does not . . . allege that 6 the charity care condition has any impact whatsoever on its ability to comply with 7 federal law." (Mot. 20.)

8 V. LEAVE TO AMEND

9 As a general rule, a court should freely give leave to amend a complaint that has 10 been dismissed. Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a). But a court may deny leave to amend when 11 "the court determines that the allegation of other facts consistent with the challenged 12 pleading could not possibly cure the deficiency." Schreiber Distrib. Co. v. Serv-Well
13 Furniture Co., 806 F.2d 1393, 1401 (9th Cir. 1986); see Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d
14 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

15 Plaintiff does not request leave to amend; nor does the Court find that leave to 16 amend would be proper. Amendment would be futile as it could not possibly cure the 17 deficiencies in Plaintiff's Complaint. No amendment could change the fact, as alleged 18 in Plaintiff's Complaint, that Plaintiff continues to meet both its obligations under the 19 federal laws discussed above and the Charity Care Condition, and that the Charity
20 Care Condition does not stand as an obstacle to the federal laws previously discussed.
21 Accordingly, the Motion to Dismiss is granted without leave to amend.

1 VI. CONCLUSION

2 For the reasons discussed above, the Court GRANTS Defendant's Motion to 3 Dismiss without leave to amend as amendment would be futile. (ECF No. 24.) The 4 Clerk of the Court shall close the case.
